

GLENDALOVELL ~ N.S.W.

Glenda has had a lifetime involvement with horses starting at pony club as a young girl, then riding racehorses as a teenager. She even took a couple of in-work racehorses to the local show, winning and there began a love of showing that is still as strong as ever.

1975 saw the first "Glenian Park" bred horse, a dappled grey Partbred mare who went on to win and place at State, National and Royal level as a Galloway hack. Glenian Rishan was by Rimski and that began the love of Arabian horses. Rishan's daughter and granddaughter are the pride of the small group of Glenian Park show horses today.

Glenda has judged at Melbourne and Sydney Royal Shows as well as the halter of the Australian Championships. She had judged many times at State, National and "A" class shows in Australia and New Zealand. Glenda has also judged in Papua New Guinea on several occasions. She is on the judge's panel of several breed associations as well as EA.

Glenda likes a good horse regardless of breed. She likes well mannered exhibitors and good sportsmanship. Glenda also likes good wine!

When asked what her pet hates are, Glenda responds that "she dislikes bad sportsmanship, people who use their whip too much and bad manners in both people and horses. Glenda dislikes bad wine!!!"
